Yale Student Seeks to Renounce $350,000 Trust

NEW YORK (P-Surrogate Court reserved decision today on a 22-year-old Yale student's demand to renounce a $350,000 trust fund willed to him by his millionaire father.

The student, Eugene F. Suter Jr. said Tuesday he wanted no part of his inheritance and insisted that his "two hands and a head of my own" are all that he needs.

Suter was reported to have already given away more than $35,-000 of the fund so far because of 'moral and political" reasons.

The trustees of the inheritance and a special guardian claim that Suter is prevented by law from ever, waiving his rights to the money.

Suter's father, inventor of the permanent wave machine, died in 1943 leaving an estate of more than one million dollars, including the trust fund presently valued at $385,000. Under terms of the will Suter was to get the accumulated income from the trust fund on his 21st birthday. At 30, he was to get one-fourth of the principal; at 35, one third of the balance, and what-ever is left when the fund expires tions of 135,000 Chicago first and Suter was unavailable for any reply at Yale University where he is studying history. He was reported to live alone in almost Spartan simplicity. His room was furnished with a simple cot covered by an army blanket and books on socialism and economic reform.

Senate Group to Probe Controversial

Chairman William Langer (R. N. D.) of the Judiciary subcommittee on Refugees announced his group will conduct a "full, complete and far-reaching" inquiry. He said that presumably Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who dropped Corsi as a consultant, will be called as a witness.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), meanwhile, termed the Corsi case "a very serious matter" and proposed that the House Judiciary committee also look into it. He said the committee should find out "what is behind the Corsi oust-Langer said that while his group interested in why Corsi was dropped, it wants to know "most of all" whether the State Department's administration of the 1953 Refugee Relief Act "has worked well as alleged by Secretary Dulles, or whether it is a failure as stated by Mr. Corsi.'

He said Corsi's charge that less than 1.000 refugees have been admitted under the act "is in direct variance with weekly reports furnished the subcommittee by the State Department."

Mental Disease Should Be Next Target of Science, Dr. Salk Says

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (P) - Dr. Jonas E. Salk who developed the Salk anti-polio vaccine, said Tuesday night science should now turn its efforts against mental disease as the next major target of preventative medicine.

Dr. Salk made the recommendation in an interview with Edward R. Murrow on the CBS television program "See It Now." Murrow conducted the interview from New York. Dr. Salk was in Ann Arbor where the announcement was made Tuesday of his successful accomplishment in developing the polio vaccine. "The area of mental disease one of the largest by far and particularly desperately in need of quantitative measures that tell us precisely what we are dealing with," Dr. Salk said.
